

Jorgo Kostov

Professor Jorgo Kostov studied medicine at the University of St. Cyril and Methodius in Skopje and obtained the board certification in internal medicine and cardiology. He trained in cardiovascular research and interventional cardiology and was awarded in 2002 with ESC training fellowship at EMO Centro Cuore Columbus, Milan, Italy. Later he became Professor of Internal Medicine and Cardiology at the Medical Faculty at University of St. Cyril and Methodius. He is a former member of the EAPCI Educational and Training Committee, present member of the EAPCI National Cardiac Societies Committee and member of the Working Group for Coronary Pathophysiology and Microcirculation. He is now President of National Society of Cardiology of North Macedonia for period 2024-2026. He is an active general and interventional cardiologist with a broad clinical scope and large experience in prevention, coronary and interventional cardiology.